

ORIGINAL LAMPS — Sam Dean, a University of Dallas art major, finishes one of the light fixtures for the new J.M. Haggard University Center. The UD art department is producing 70 of the 3 ½-foot-tall ceramic lamps for the new center, which is nearing completion. The work, under the direction of Prof. Dan Hammett, involves a total potter process. The lamps are hand-shaped, molded, drilled by hand and glazed and fired in the UD art department.
