At the King/Haggar ceremony Feb. 20 Fr. PETER PHAN, associate professor of theology, was named King Fellow and Dr. WAYNE AMBLER, assistant professor of politics, won the Haggar Award. Each year a senior faculty member is recognized as King Fellow for teaching excellence and significant contributions to education. A member of the faculty who has taught fewer than nine years and is recognized as an accomplished teacher and a promising scholar is given the King Award. Congratulations.

The UD Athletic Association is selling tickets to an early round (March 18) in the Virginia Slims tennis tournament. Chris Evert Lloyd and Pam Shriver are among the players scheduled for that day. Tickets, which will be hand-delivered to you, are $8 reserved and $5 general admission and are good for both day and evening matches. Proceeds from ticket sales will benefit the Athletic Association. Call NANCY LIDDY, sports information director, at 5028 for tickets and information.

Just a reminder--If you have never given to the UD Fund or have not done so in the last three years, your donation will now be worth twice as much, thanks to the Constantin Foundation's $50,000 challenge grant.

Alumni, faculty, staff and friends of UD are invited to participate in the third annual Riunione Roma. The two-week trip to Rome, June 13-28, will include side trips to Florence, Assisi, Pompeii and Sorrento. An optional third week in Greece will be available June 28 to July 5 if there is enough interest. Faculty and staff are eligible for a discount. Contact DENISE SCHULER, Rome coordinator, at 5206 for more information.

The mayor and city council of the City of Irving hosted a dinner Feb. 20 for major participants in last year's Sesquicentennial celebration. Both the University of Dallas and Dr. JOSEPH RICE, director of University Relations and chairman of the Irving's Sesquicentennial celebration, received plaques in recognition of their service. Dr. Rice also received books signed with words of thanks from the mayor and city council.

UD Theater announces the presentation of von Horvath's "Don Juan Returns from the War" in the Margaret Jonsson Theater March 3-13. Curtain is 8:15. Admission is $3. Call 5314 for reservations.

"All Kidding Aside" is being performed at Stage Number One, where PATRICK KELLY, chairman of the Drama Department, is artistic director. Tickets are available through Rainbow Ticketmaster outlets. For more information call 871-2277.

CLAIRE MANNING, university nurse, is recovering nicely from her heart surgery. She sends her thanks to all for the cards and well wishes she received.

CONDOLENCES: The University of Dallas faculty and staff send their deepest sympathy to SAM McCLURE, vice president of Development and University Relations, and his family. His mother-in-law, Anita Branca, died last week. In lieu of flowers, the family has requested that donations be made to Library Associates for the purchase of new books. Contact Joyce Dempsey at 5149 if you would like to make a donation.

UD trustee emeriti, R.V. Carleton, died Feb. 9 at the age of 81. He was elected to the Board of Trustees Sept. 28, 1973.
