

Real American

Among the distinguished gentlemen receiving honorary degrees at the University of Dallas is one who deserves continual mention for service to his country. Gen. Douglas MacArthur—square jaw, pipe and straight shoulders — is a symbol of hard-rock Americanism.

The News salutes him for this latest honor—and salutes this fine young university on Founders Day for recognizing him for what he is and what he has done. We need his kind who will not cower in the corner of cowardice at the mere mention of a rival power. General MacArthur knows only one way to face an enemy, and that is to whip him. He tried and got fired for it.

His example still lives. He is an American, a real American.
